Today, digital communications bandwidth is no less vital to participating in American society then having a water faucet that can fill a cup within seconds vs. hours, and thirsty minds should allows be encouraged to drink their fill. This solution would help ensure that the highly talented residences of Lake Wabaunsee and Alma area can continue that education and professional contributions. By building the necessary digital infrastructure in support of remote presence and information sharing capabilities rural America can begin its revitalization bringing work/life balance options and opportunity for those American who choose to live more self-reliant lives. In addition, the current demographic movement underway, from cities to rural areas, can not continue without these modern communications capabilities. Rural American contribution has been the framing and fabric of the resilient and diverse American story. The results of this project can help ensure that this fundamental, elemental, contribution to America and continue long in to the future.
