Supporting Rural Communities

FORHP Efforts to Address Health Care Issues in Rural America

The Federal Office of Rural Health Policy (FORHP) has supported:

The goal of rural community programs is to improve health service delivery by strengthening health networks and encourage collaboration among rural health care providers.

FORHP has provided billions of dollars in funding to increase health care access, strengthen health networks, and focus on care quality improvements for Critical Access Hospitals and small rural hospitals. FORHP is also supporting HRSA's goal to achieve health equity by funding efforts to strengthen health care delivery systems, reduce the morbidity and mortality associated with substance use disorder and improve the financial viability of rural hospitals.

Network History and Members

In 2008, the Telluride Foundation convened the major health care stakeholders in San Miguel, Ouray, and Montrose counties to discuss how to improve health by integrating health care services in the region. Before this time, there had been little collaboration among stakeholders. Individual network members attempted to address the needs of the region's population; however, working in isolation, they could make only incremental efforts impacting their limited patient base. Through a series of discussions, these leaders elected to create an independent organization through which they could work together to measurably improve the region's health. In 2010, the Tri-County Health Network (TCHNetwork) was established as a 501(c)(3) type 1 supporting organization of the Telluride Foundation. Since that time, TCHNetwork has expanded and now serves the four-county region comprising San Miguel, Ouray, Montrose, and Delta counties.
